How the day is run: Notes and instructions

The day is organised into two full paper sessions, an Idea Incubator, a networking session and a panel discussion.

During the full paper sessions, presenters will have 15 minutes to present their papers, followed by 5 minutes for audience questions and feedback.

Similarly, during the Idea Incubator, presenters will have 15 minutes to present their proposals, followed by 5 minutes for audience Q&A. The facilitator will then lead a guided discussion for 10 minutes on each session's topic. Note that the paper proposal sessions will be run in parallel breakout sessions organised according to attendees' interest areas as indicated during registration.

Following the Idea Incubator, there will be a networking session for students and faculty to connect and discuss shared interests over coffee and pastries.

The day will include two concurrent panel discussions during which students will have the opportunity to ask distinguished faculty members questions about the job market (panel 1) or navigating the PhD process (panel 2).

The research day will be followed by an optional social event at a nearby venue (Marceline, 5 Water Street, London E14 5GX).

To keep costs down and support sustainability, please return your lanyard at the end of the day and recycle your event badge.

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact Sara Cores at sara.cores.23@ucl.ac.uk or Youngbeom Kim at youngbeom.kim.24@ucl.ac.uk.
